If You Want to Be Great

“I remembered something my mother used to say... ‘If you want to be great, you must walk with people who are great.’ She meant that if you want to be happy, hang around with people who are happy. If you want to be successful, hang around with successful people. If you want to awaken the genius inside you, then hang around with people who are in touch with great ideas. And study books of greatness.”

- Nido R. Qubein, foreword to The Magic of Believing by Claude Bristol

This report is only half a page – just 149 words – because the lesson is so utterly simple that it needs no amplification. Either you're doing it or you're not doing it. And another five or ten thousand words on the subject are not going to make it one bit clearer.

So... are you doing it?
